

ACCESSING FIREPLACE COMPONENTS

All Traditional fireplaces have their components built-in, as outlined below. This removes the need for an access panel and simplifies service for technicians in the field. To gain access to these components for service you remove your outer safety barrier, and inner glass panels. This will reveal your components, allowing you to pull them up and out onto the burner for service.

